CLASS HISTORY

In the turbulent years of 1937 and 1938, delegates met at the round table to discuss the future policies of the four-year conference at Ludlow High School. Shortly after they elected the "Big Four" who were: president, Dorothy Milroy; vice-president, Eleanor Carmell; secretary, Marilyn Munsing; and treasurer, Rita Bourgeois. Amidst all the business being carried on, there was a pause for a social gathering, a Freshmen Day during which all political troubles (or intrigues) were forgotten.

Affairs were getting darker and gloomier as the delegates plunged into more difficult tasks. However, with the help of new political officers (President, Edward Trusz; Vice-president, Roy Hiersche; Secretary, Marilyn Munsing; and Treasurer, Rita Bourgeois), the delegates met some of their aims in the year of 1938-1939. To get them into the right mood, they held a Sophomore Party, at which the members enjoyed dancing and refreshments.

On September 6, 1939, the delegates met early in order to carry out all the important issues before them. After electing Ronald Young as president, Raymond Davis as vice-president, Marilyn Munsing as secretary, and Gladys Duda as treasurer, the delegates participated in the Maroon and White Fall Frolic, the annual Junior Dance. After such a gratifying festival, the delegates returned to business by purchasing the class rings, an emblem that held them together in the world of growing disturbance. Then came the memorable day, June 7, 1940, the night of the Junior Promenade. It was the last social affair of the year before the return in the next fall, when other important matters awaited them.

It was a sad and warring world that confronted the delegates when they met for the last session of their four-year conference at the Ludlow High School. 1940-1941 will be a year well remembered. The "Big Four," President, Ronald Young; Vice-president, Mitchell Kras, Secretary, Marilyn Munsing, and Treasurer, Gladys Duda, posted October 24, 1940, as the day of the Senior Dance. Soon came the task of putting out the Year Book, a lasting remembrance of the representatives in the Pan-American Union. The Junior agents paid tribute to the Senior representatives at the Junior Promenade. Time passed swiftly, and soon we were planting the ivy, a traditional practice. Then came Class Night where we re-examined the life and history of all the delegates. To soften the sad feeling of departure after four years of hard work and enjoyment, a banquet was held where the representatives tossed all cares to the four winds and gave vent to all the joy they had held within them for years.

Then came the saddest day of all, the day when the representatives would part, never to cross each other's paths again — in some cases — never to share the troubles which they had borne together through four years, never to enjoy the company of the same one hundred and twenty delegates at a social gathering. At this last significant meeting, before the union dissolved, many delegates were presented with awards for outstanding achievement in carrying out important issues through the long conference. Medals of merit were also distributed to members worthy of them. Thus did the one hundred and twenty delegates part, bidding a last fond farewell to four years of the happiest days they had ever spent.

CLASS PROPHECY

All roads lead to Washington! The Pan-American Conference set for the year one has come! Incoming busses, trains, and planes all carry representatives to the meeting. Sophie "Snoop" Starzyk is at the landing field to meet the celebreties with Steve Antonio, reporter and photographer, respectively, of the Eleanor Carmell Gazette. Gracious stewardess Ruth Freitag checks off passengers as we watch for notables of the day.

Why, Doctor John Bourbeau, who takes an active interest in political fields, Dorothy Milroy, world-famous brain specialist, Red Cross nurses, Ezaura Fernandes, Lillian Bisaillon, Josephine Beauregard, and Muriel Frennier who are to be delegated to Pan-American service, are all on the plane piloted by the world-famous flier, "Wimpy" Pruhnik.

Next we visit the bus depot to see a Greyhound pulling in way behind schedule. But the driver, Manuel Cabral, believes an hour's delay is nothing compared to a mile of prevention. Meek-voiced western Senator Emile Swiatowski is accompanied by outspoken campaigner for women's rights, Nellie Siok. Film star "Cowboy" Marszalek takes a bow with Marjorie Johnston, young starlet. Stanley Twarog, eminent scientist, Marcellino Silva, statesman, and Alfred Patrie, manager of the John Kuc bakeries, decide to share taxi expenses with Joseph Duarte and Virgil Jorge, wealthy film magnates.

In the hotel station wagon Reno Belluci awaits the train. The 8:15 brings Steve Andrusik, Peter Figiel, and Alfred Henriques of the Charles Craigie Crushed Pineapple Company, Incorporated.

Lila Bagley, manager of the Dorothy Carpenter hotels, instructs desks clerks Genevieve Dziura, Alma Gauthier, Leona Boulia, and Virginia Almeida to register the guests who now arrive in a steady stream. Irene Borthwick and Amelia Karetta, the elevator girls, greet Brenda Allen, famous pianist, Alice Grabowski, authority on the Washington official standing, Jennie Kogut, originator of the "Friendly Neighbors" radio program, and Helen Anderson, stylist for the Isabella Konieczny chain of fashion shops.

The convention is preceeded by a luncheon in the main dining hall where we see James Gillan, the handsome head waiter, in charge of Walter Dusza, Chester Lizak, Leo Roberts, Edward Sas, and Elio Sergeneri, who usher late comers to their tables. Waitresses Dorothy Craig, Clara Beauregard, Beatrice Filer, Mabel Luzi, Gladys Miner, and Marie Pelletier serve a delicious luncheon planned by dieticians Elizabeth Taylor, Dena Catalini, and Mabel Luzi and prepared by chef, John Raymond.

Adjourning to the convention rooms, visitors notice a suspicious looking character. Ah! ha! it is John Laughran, the famous criminologist, doing a little detecting.

Chairman Ronald Young calls the delegation to order and asks for a roll call. Horse fancier Sect'y of the meeting, Marilyn Munsing, does as requested, and then Gladys Duda gives an edifying report of the finances. Representatives of American Services,—Harry Bosyk of the Coast Guard, Edward Trusz of the Marines, Joseph Polys of the Navy, and Ernest Noel of the Army offer aid from their branches. Cassmeda Campora, the principal speaker, delivers an address on Pan-American Relations. Immediately Ubaldo Casagrande opposes her method of approach. A lively debate follows with Lorraine Gaudreau, Maurice Chenaille, Phyllis Cornell, and Edmond Walence taking sides. Ida Coelho, secretary to the renowned artist, Rita Arel, takes notes while Beverly Chevrier and Ruth Clifford discuss means of planning a cultural program for the school principal Gloria Sorrell, planning to go into the interior with Mitchell Tenerowicz's Boy Scout troupe leading the way. Arthur Duquette brings the meeting to a close with an address on business conditions in the Americas. Then Robert Tibbets invites all to the Fiesta Pan-America.

The first entertainers are Rita Bougeois and William Santos doing a South American tango to the Congo Rhythm of George Domainge's symphonic jive orchestra, which includes Walter Lazarz, expert on the saxophobia, Margaret Martin with her "sweet potatoe," Jennie Wojtowicz at the pianoforte, and Tillie Ferreira giving voice to the South American Way. Helen Zielinski and Jeannette Rooney sell all their gardenias to Edward Ryba, who then strolls to the Newspaper Syndicate table where publisher Ken Warren explains the campaign he wishes to launch in support of the nomination of Mitchel Kras for representative from Jinksville. Women's Club President, Irene Frazer, protests that Jeanette Bourbeau has the support of the Tuesday Morning Coffee Club headed by a committee of three, Yvonne Willette, Eugenia Tenerowicz, and Arminda Mendes.

In the corner sits Dorothy Milne, editor of the "Daily Blah," all eyes and ears when Felicia Makuch, a noted woman politician, speaks to Marguerite Beck and Judith Kopach, who are making their debut in Washington under the sponsorship of Anna Almeida, a noted figure in Washington Civil Service.

Theresa B'saillon and Barbara Baird, social lights of official circles, talk to Ruth Dion and Sheila Stone, most likely about Sophie Nalepa, who is now most aptly giving her famous imitation of a tall man in a circus. Jennie Mik, tennis star of reknown, plans a sports program for Central America with Annie Jez, who manufactures golf balls.

Shirley Dennis and Eldena Casagranda of Nevada are trying to get Adrienne Chenier to move there so they can get one more representative and send Ezuaara Carrola to the House of Representatives so she can give Joseph Nowak a job as pageboy.

All the groups look up when they hear plaintive western ballads. Why it's Victoria Ziemba entertaining them by playing records on her victrola!

Arlindo Jorge of the Leonard Nietupski Escort Service sits in a corner reading Superman Comics while Anna Smokowicz, at a further table, tells Rita Duquette about Count Edward Libiszewski, who has just come back after rescuing Rose Queiros and Diolinda Rodrigues, who have been exploring a mine in South America. Stella Pylypou, hat check girl, well-pleased to see the guests depart for it has been a busy day, says to all a goodnight and pleasant dreams.

The Dramatic Club produced several good plays during the year, the major production being Second Fiddle, a three-act comedy. Productions which were open to the public aided greatly in paying for the cyclorama curtain which was purchased by the group last year.

This year the Dramatic Club worked jointly with Sigma-Chi in planning a Christmas program for adult guests. Three girls tried their hand at directing. Barbara Baird directed Just What They Wanted; Sophie Starzyk, More Blessed, and Josie Zych of Sigma-Chi directed The Last Christmas.

GLEE CLUB

With the opening of the club program, the Glee Club, under the leadership of Miss Ratcliffe, with Francis Cristina as piano accompanist, was organized. Many of the meetings were devoted to learning familiar and unfamiliar carols in preparation for the club's initial public appearance at the Christmas assembly. After the resignation of Miss Ratcliffe, Miss Urban, the new music teacher, took over the direction of the club. After the Christmas season, the club met and practiced faithfully every week and learned a number of difficult selections.

This year the club became a member of the National Hi-Y. A new, highly successful plan for choosing members was inaugurated. In November, the group attended the Yale-Brown football game in New Haven, Connecticut. The club's annual amateur hour followed in December. OUR JUNE DOOR

The phases of Life we experience
 Are like doors op'ning one by one,
 And though each closes quickly behind us
 It may be by mem'ry undone.

Each door marks the end of an era
 Which mem'ry alone can unlock,
 And the door which tonight swings wide open—
 Shows the future at which we will knock.

But whatever the future may bring us,
 Wherever Life's pathways may go,
 We'll always look back to this June door
 Where we saw our ambitions first grow.

For the doors which our teachers here opened
 Are the ones which to others will lead,
 And our hopes and ambitions forever
 Will have sprung up from the humble seed.

By BARBARA BAIRD

CLASS SONG

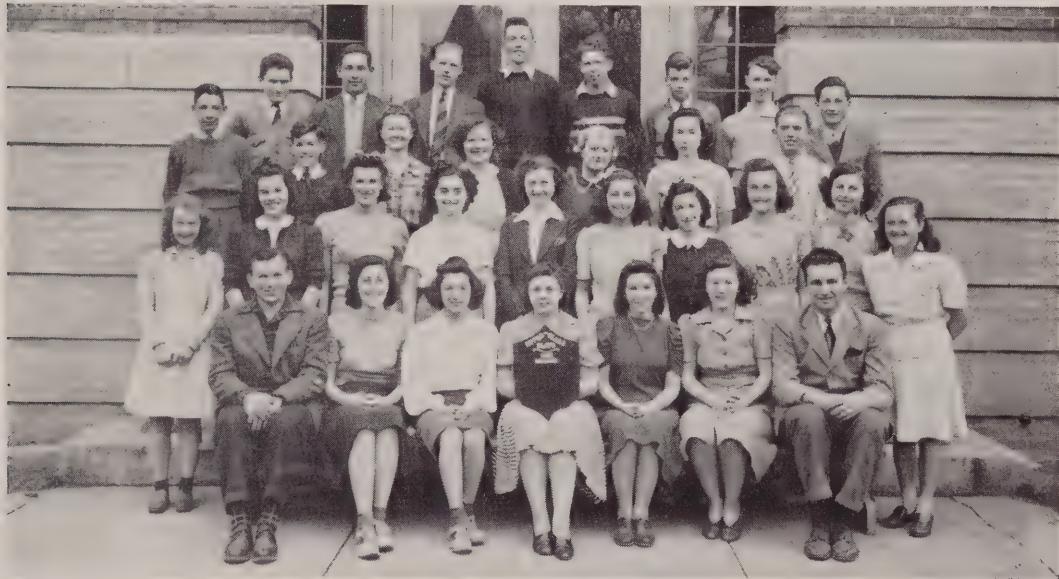

Proud our hearts when leaving Ludlow High,
 To follow thru to victory—
 Loud and clear our parting song resounds,
 Challenge to the hopes we have of mastery.
 Ev'ry year another class is through,
 And now it's we of '41.

We've completed many years of work
 As before us many classes oft have done,
 High our hopes when leaving Ludlow High
 To strive to reach our goals at last.
 And though we may reach ambition's end—
 There's no doubt but oft we'll think of times long past.

Chorus

We leave thee now our Ludlow High!
 We've gathered here to pay thee due
 With hearts of hopes, yet we do have
 A fond farewell to say to you.
